

Ann Beretta, Love's Easy Tears

She's got a little piece of heaven and she hides it in her heart, wears it on her sleeve until everything falls apart i do i don't it you its true we're better off live through this shouting out dying proof the harder they come, the harder they fall keep you head held high when your back's to the wall and when it all falls down and it all falls apart there's a new day arise and its back to the start again two hearts in the middle america some things are never gonna change love's easy tears won't fade away today you rise up above just to fall down below, now end in sight no better place to go give'm an inch just to take back a yard we're livin' large fighting hard, never ending, going on...