

Anne-Karine Strom, The First Day Of Love (Euro

And today is the first day of living, 'understanding' - the word of the day
So with faith in the things we believe in, there will always be help on the way
We are changing the tide every hour, we are clearing the sky up above
And we know that with our newborn power, every day is the first day of love
In our song - the final solution, we have used the words on the wall
Awaiting the love revolution, we all know the curtain will fall
Can't you feel the silent ovation? Don't you know it's only the start?
In tune with your own generation, you are finding love in your heart
And today is the first day of living, 'understanding' - the word of the day
So, with faith in the things we believe in, there will always be help on the way
We are changing the tide every hour, we are clearing the sky up above
And we know that with our newborn power, every day is the first day of love
Even though we're at the beginning, we are going down the same road
At last we can say we are winning, we have help to carry our load
And today is the first day of living, 'understanding' - the word of the day
So, with faith in the things we believe in, there will always be help on the way
We are changing the tide every hour, we are clearing the sky up above
And we know that with our newborn power, every day is the first day of love
