

Anti-Flag, If You Wanna Steal (You Better Learn How To Lie)

Our Father Michael is a genius
He sees this world the way that no one can
He brought me up and he shaped my mind at the tender, youthful age of 9.
He said dont take this or the way it is,
You better watch out son when you give in.
Before you know it the "friends" you trust will have stabbed you in the back,
He said...

"If you wanna steal, you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live, you better not fear how you die
Heaven and Hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment..."

The fine line between genius and insanity,
Is the one he often treads so patiently.
While pigs and bulls will always try to lock the door...
A system built to perpetuate,
Pusher pushing, dealers dealing with they can't escape.
"Ive got kids and homes to protect Theres no living in this wage and they have set..."

"If you wanna steal, you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live, you better not fear how you die
Heaven and Hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment..."

Sometimes when my apathy,
Creeps on up from behind me.
It reminds me why i moved my T.V,
Out from the room where i make love.
In case i might just look up,
And see the sky is falling from above.
See it falling from above.

"If you wanna steal, you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live, you better not fear how you die
Heaven and Hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment..."
(oh yeah)
"If you wanna steal, you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live, you better not fear how you die
Heaven and Hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment..."
(oh yeah)
