

Arab Strap, Not Quite A Yes

Why could I not speak? You're not so unique. My eyes stayed on the floor.
I make a little suggestion, before I pop the question. But I was far too out my face.
I was out my face.

"It's the first time in ages I've actually had the guts to ask, but I'm feeling particularly confident
No meeting was I granted. But now the seed's been planted. And now you're in the know.
Too steaming too impress. Not a know, not quite a yes.
You ask if that's okay. I suppose it's okay.
