Ari Hest, Monsters

At the midnight hour you can feel the minutes fade Licking wounds from yesterday, bracing for tomorrow's stage I create these monsters, seems like every way I can It's never my intention, but somehow it feels strangely planned

And this goes to show you Ignorance is underrated, 'cause

I'd rather forget all about my past Cruel how these moments never cease to last And you could do better than this If you refuse to hide These monsters will subside

Story after story, squeezing fiction out of fact Trying to face forward, but always looking back Conjuring up danger when you know you're safe and sound Once you start to question yourself, the road you take leads down, down

And this goes to show you Ignorance is underrated

Chorus

Close your eyes