

ASHES divide, The Stone

I've been pushing stones away
far from these shores
I pretend that it's all okay
On the brink of what can't be adored
We survived
well we can change
So let it fade
Just let it go
We pretend so nothing has changed
Flowers never breaking through the stone
I pretend and pray it all away searching for a place to hide
But I don't need to pretend memories to fade
I just wanna feel something real inside
And we survive
Well we can change
So let it fade
Let it go
We pretend so nothing does change
The flowers never breaking through the stone.
I've been pushing stones away
far from these shores
I pretend that it's all okay
So long I can be adored
We survived
well we can change
So let it fade
Just let it go
We pretend so nothing has changed
Flowers never breaking through the stone
