</lyrics>

For a moment, the shining present
Reflected our black shadows across our hearts
It was dazzling so I closed my eyes
For the short time they were closed,
The sun dissolved and stained my eyelids red
The world blurred

The weak wind strokes my cheek but
In time it will pierce through people's hearts
I'm trying to raise my voice here but
The distance it takes to reach you isn't enough

It was mortifying so I closed my eyes

For the short time they were closed,
The sun dissolved and stained my eyelids red
The world blurred

Every night, every night, here, yes, that's how
I will wish for a future that looks like the sun
Every night, every night, yes, that's how
You will run your feelings to night's other side

Through the present
Through the days
Through time
I run through them all
