

Assorted Jellybeans, You'll Never Know

hey you when will you wake up and realize that you you got no reason for your lies you think you know just what to say but it will catch up with you some day don't know just where i'm going what good is even knowing why i've tried too hard for too long? everything I do just goes wrong you'll never know too late, too much you slipped way out of touch try to redo everything you thought you knew all this hate makes you so blind but you will always be right in your mind why don't you stop to listen you might just see what you've been missing.