

Autumn, Blue Wine

I think you know what we lost when we failed to share a life, but tried I think we lost perfection somewhere Where I wouldn't dare to look again

For once drink with me tonight

Let's not waste another second Let's wash down the years and savor this coming night until the call of light

Pour the wine and let us drink the pleasure we never dared to treasure That stinging nostalgia, Indefinable memory,
Locked away

For once drink with me tonight

What I see, what I hear this scented sentiment had to come from somewhere All I can do is try for words to tell you why I can't let go All you can do is try to remember why I can't just lock it all away
