Autumn, The End Of The Line

how long can things go on like this i hunger and am left hungry so greedy have i become i must steal your lips to get a cheap kiss i want to feel some of this i need to know some of this and i ache to breath your fire your joy, your madness, and your pain for i am only animal flesh and bone and sex and i have been faithful for so long i don't know how much more that i can take this i want to feel some of this i need to be some of this and i ache to breath your fire your joy, your madness, and your pain