

Ayria, Pink Dress

Now it's all black
And feelings will conquer logic
So I crept out the back
Hopefully no one noticed

They said it's suicide
She's trapped inside her mind
She tastes like cyanide
Poisoned right through

I said I'm sorry
There was nothing I could do
You saw right through me
It's something I could never do

I thought you would laugh
But nothing prepared me for this
When nature strikes back
Who knew she would be so wicked?

She looks so peaceful now
Just like a doll somehow
But they don't see what I can see
She got to them and now she's coming for me

I'm sorry
There was nothing I could do
You saw right through me
It's something I could never do

She said disappear
That's something I'm good at too
It you don't keep quiet
They just might hear you too

I looked up to you
Idolized all you do
Was I the one that you pinned this on?
Well you won't get to blame me anymore

They said it's suicide
She's trapped inside her mind
But they don't see what I can see
That she's poisoned right through

I told you that I don't know where she could be
But I know that she is laughing down at me
They whispered;
'This one looks smug in her pink dress'
I fled the scene
She's innocent but she's a mess

I'm sorry
There was nothing I could do
You saw right through me
It's something I could never do

Now it's all black
And nature strikes back
Who knew she would be so wicked?
