

Backlash, Liberation

In this hazy place of cold I reach my hands for desire something makes my senses glow a treasure I admire you're my beautiful twisted lie
the mental drug in me that makes me fly

All the things I've done are caused by you a make-believe that takes me higher I'm dependent on the words you breathe they have set my mind on fire

In this state of liberations where it always seems to shine something blinds my field of view my imaginary design but without your love
I left outdoors
I am face with guilt and remorse

All the things I've done are caused by you
a make-believe that takes me higher
I'm dependent on the words you breathe
they have set my mind on fire