

Backseat Goodbye, Virginia

Well virginia came down the stairs said "i have something to say, i love you anyway" i opened my eyes and blew a kiss from the old couch we found on the side of the road this apartment has dirty steps and a few broken windows but it's the only place i could ever call home i used to know your first name but forgot it twice on purpose when you said you had to go it's not like the summer lasts all year july left me here without you the sun is gone, the stars all fell i can't get to sleep tonight and if you were here it would all be alright i told you not to laugh when i said you looked beautiful but you did it anyway our old friends all left this town but we liked the sound of it so we just stayed let's dance let's dance around the yard clap our hands until we are gone