

Bacon Brothers, Bus

Written by Kevin Bacon

"Finally broke down and wrote a road song. Or is it a love song to a Prevost?" KB

She comes from Nashville, Tennessee
But she's not too country, not too me
She's got a Janis Joplin heart and Aretha Franklin soul
I love to feel her rock and I love to feel her roll
When I'm standing in the rain she takes me for a ride
She's says you don't need that raincoat baby you can come inside
I've known a hundred thousand boys who are just like you
You don't need to say a word
Just let me do like I do, like I do, like I do

I got a good woman
God knows nothing's gonna come between the two of us, yeah
I love that woman, god knows, I love that bus

CD, DVD, VCR, and a satellite dish and an open bar
She don't even care if my homies hang out
Doesn't bitch doesn't moan, doesn't whine, doesn't pout
And all the wannabees wanna date her
All the blumen and the space invaders
She's got a Graceland sparkle and a Vegas style
She looks like she's ready to roll mile after mile

I got a good woman
God knows nothing's gonna come between the two of us, yeah
I love that woman, god knows, I love that bus

Well I thought I'd seen the world and I thought that I was wise
But she showed me other colors just by looking through her eyes
There's thunder in the west and there's lightening in the east
In the eye of the storm in the belly of the beast
Where she gonna take us to today
It don't really matter, if we get a chance to play
Something that was lost has now been found
She can keep those worn out wheels goin' round and around

I got a good woman. God knows nothing's gonna come between the two of us, yeah
I love that woman?God knows, step up baby
It's just you and me honey and the twelve of us
Yeah, I love that woman, God knows, I love that bus

February, 2001: For the band and crew, a pivotal moment in history on the bus somewhere in India
