Bad Examples

Meat: The Bad Examples

Reaching For Shadows

I keep on looking where you were sleeping

I see the imprint of your body on the sheet

I keep on hiding, thinking you've found me

I give you nothing and you give me borrowed time

(chorus)

Feels like i'm reaching for shadows, shadows

Looks like i'm holding on to water again

Every time i think i've figured out what we're after

I'm reaching for shadows

We say we're honest, but what do we know

We tell ourselves so many lies we think are true

And it's no secret we're more than just friends

But we're so much less than we ever really knew

Chorus

We put a label on it, just so we won't talk about it

Two masters of deception -- seeing all, but not each other

And i believe it's time we stop pretending

We're a pair of shadows... shadows...

I keep on feeling where you're not touching

I'm tired of dancing with a shadow on the wall

And if we're terrified of being lonely

Why do we struggle so hard to remain alone?

Chorus
