

Barbra Streisand, I've Never Been A Woman Before

You touched me in the sun
I somehow knew I'd been the only one
How wonderful the moment
When the boy became a man
You warmed me in the night
And you taught me how to feel
But it all would seem unreal to try
And go back there again
We walked away from time
I'd like to keep the moment that was mine
I'd like to touch the man I met just once
Before I go
Oh, I've been to many places
And I've opened every door
I've done everything a girl could do and more
But I've never been a woman before
No, I've never been a woman before
