

Bella Morte, Dust

Everything I know is changing with the days
And in the end the sky will turn from blue to grey
Within your eyes I see myself as someone else
And nothing matters but this single moment
You see everything that hides inside of me
Like a light within the dark
All I am will fade to dust when you are gone
For the wind to carry off

This will pass as memories are laid to sleep
Forgotten as a grave the rests beneath the sea
Not even one will know that we were ever here

Not even one will know how much this mattered
You see everything that hides inside of me
Like a light within the dark
All I am will fade to dust when you are gone
For the wind to carry off

Feel no fear tonight my dear
Time will fade and we will meet again some day
Time will fade
And I'll be there within the grey
Time will fade
And we will meet again some other day