

Berlin, Lost My Mind

I need you
When I look at the lines on my face
And the little kid behind my eyes

I want you
When I look at the rocky road ahead
And the little streets we left behind

No more accidents, your time had come
And no coincidence, no more right or wrong
But I'm here you're gone, we were one

Think I've lost my mind, 'cause despite my reservations I know
I feel you here around me now
Think I've lost my mind, 'cause despite my reservations I know
I feel your arms around me now

I hate you
When I look at the bridges I have burned
And the crossroads I stand in now

I call you
I cry for the years we could've had
And the bitterness that I can't drown

No more accidents, keep it all inside
But no coincidence I'm so open wide
Once only I could see the fear inside

Think I've lost my mind, 'cause despite my reservations I know
I feel you all around me now
Think I've lost my mind, 'cause despite my reservations I know
I feel your arms around me now

No more accidents, keep it all inside
But no coincidence I'm so open wide
Once only I could see all the fear inside
I want to show you all the love I hide

Think I've lost my mind, 'cause despite my reservations I know
I feel you here around me now
Have I lost my mind, 'cause despite my reservations I know
I feel your arms around me now