Berlin, Pleasure Victim

We touched there was temperture I'm not the same Now i'm passing through your door It's a pleasure game

You're the object of of my smile I'm a life machine Sentimental sound on sound Time to switch the scene

You're the passion in me You've broken down the system You're the vision i see A pleasure victim

Simple figures fill my mind Some I recognize Bodies always look the same Never see their eyes

To the touch there's always you How can I erase your Flaming candles, whispered words Then your soft embrace