

Berman, Pages

writing a novel, a hundred thousand pages, about the things that she's been through, there's no end is that what i wanted, is that what i needed, for her open wounds, to go on untreated lookin' in her eyes, seeing more than blue, free of all the fears that she's been fighting, the life she's