Best Coast, Last Year

I used to believe in diamonds and things I used to believe in you and me But now I believe in nothing

I used to wake up in the morning And reach for that bottle of glass But I don't do that anymore Kicked my habits out the front door

And I'm always talking to somebody else But she doesn't even know my face I don't know how I feel I'm all over the place

And when I go out I don't feel anything I just keep on spending my money One day it will be gone And then I'll have to write another song

What a year this day has been What a day this year has been Please don't get me wrong I just don't know where time has gone

What a year this day has been What a day this year has been Please don't get me wrong I just don't know where my mind has gone
