Beth Hart, Thru The Window Of My Mind

I could fly away Leave it all behind I could take a train But I would rather fly

I could escape
Through the window of my mind
But I?ll never leave you behind
I?ve seen the place where the broken people hide
I wanna know love before I die

Open the window Open the window

I could steal a plain
The stars, the moon, the rain
I will make a change
I?d give anything

I could escape through the window of my mind I?II never leave you behind I?ve seen the place where the broken people hide I wanna know love before I die

I?m waiting, I?m waiting For something, for nothing I?m ready, I?m ready now

Open the window Open the window Open the window

I could escape through the window of my mind But I?II never leave you behind I?ve seen the place where the broken people hide I wanna know love before I die

Open the window Open the window Open the window