Biffy Clyro, Machines

I would dig a thousand holes to lay next to you I would dig a thousand more if I needed to I look around the grave for an escape route of old routines There doesnt seem to be any other way

Cause Ive started falling apart Im not savouring life Ive forgotten how good it could be to feel alive

Crazy as it sounds you wont feel as low as you feel right now At least thats what I've been told by everyone I whisper empty sounds in your ear and hope that you wont let go Take the pieces and build them skywards

Cause I've started falling apart Im not savouring life I've forgotten how good it could be to feel alive

I've started falling apart I'm not savouring life Take the pieces and build them skywards I've forgotten how good it could be to feel alive Take the pieces and build them skywards

I've started falling apart I'm not savouring life Take the pieces and build them skywards I've forgotten how good it could be to feel alive Take the pieces and build them skywards

I've started falling apart I'm not savouring life Take the pieces and build them skywards I've forgotten how good it could be to feel alive Take the pieces and build them skywards

Take the pieces and build them skywards and Take the pieces and build them skywards and Take the pieces and build them up to the sky.

Biffy Clyro - Machines w Teksciory.pl