

Bill Anderson, Won't It Ever Be Morning

(Bill Anderson)

Won't it ever be morning
Won't the dawn ever break
Won't it ever quit hurtin'
How much can I take?

A man could go crazy
In the shape that I'm in
I love you and miss you so much
Won't it ever be morning again?

It's barely twelve o'clock
But I've already spent a lifetime
Just sittin' here and wishin' it
Was any time but nighttime.

Outside the winds are moanin' low
And I just heard it thunder
Your picture on the wall just laughed at me
And I just wonder.

Won't it ever be morning
Won't the dawn ever break
Won't it ever quit hurtin'
How much can I take?

A man could go crazy
In the shape that I'm in
I love you and miss you so much
Won't it ever be morning again?

I love you and miss you so much
Won't it ever be morning again?...
