Billie Jo Spears, I've Never Loved Anyone More

It seems that I don't think about you too much And I'm not too sure why I thought of you now Time has a way of numbing the touch But I still recall when you left me Just how much it hurts me to stand there just watching you leave I couldn't believe it was true After moments we shared and the souls that we bared I've never loved anyone more

But like I said I don't think of you much There's someone beside me who helps me forget He's shown me how not to think of you now But when I remember you I don't regret That we couldn't hold on to the dreams that we shared The dreams that were there to believe in And for all of the pain I will love you again I've never loved anyone more

And for all of the pain I will love you again I've never loved anyone more
