

Billy Walker, Tell Me Again

Tell me again how I'll soon forget you and won't even think of your name
For time goes slow I want to know just how it is that I will lose this pain
Tell me again how there'll be another and how that someone will take your place
Then tell me the part what to do with a heart that still loves yes tell me again
Tell me how I'll no longer see you tossing sleeplessly through each night
Or when my mem'ry strays to a yesterday
When the world was ours and everything was right
Tell me again how I'll make it without you and how I'll have time on my side
Then tell me the part what to do with a heart that still loves yes tell me again
Yes tell me again