

Bipolar, Chemical Dream

I've seen this before
You're on it again
It's all in your eyes
They've sold you out

Now that your world's standing still
I've got time to say
That the steps that you take to forget all your pain
Won't let you remember your life's not that easy to change

Your chemical dream has gone too far
Now you've become what they told you to be
And somehow forgot who you are

They want you to say
That you're better than me
But why pay for lies I've Already told you for free

And now here we are
So very far from the start
Well that shit that you take might have cleared up your mind
But didn't leave much of your heart

CHORUS

If you walk away, don't turn around
I won't pick you up just to watch you fall down again
Maybe this time, you'll realize

CHORUS 2X