Black Sabbath, Buried Alive

Once upon a nightmare Once upon a time You're running from temptation You got lost And found that you don't

Belong to anybody You're all the same Just another number Cross it out Whenever you don't behave

Someone got the doctor He knows what to do Throw some bones and mumble The devil's inside of you

It might be contagious It might change the plan Get back in your tiny boxes Even if you can't We say you can

Join the congregation Everybody's got to get in line and We never justify The choir sings a never-ending lie

When you thought you were free You didn't need a reason No reason to survive

As the big door closes And you waiting for the nail Somebody tell the world You're buried alive

Once upon a nightmare Once upon a time You're running from tomorrow You got lost And found that another Day has turned to ashes Taken by the wind Frozen seeds of sorrow Never to begin

Join the celebration And everybody's got to get in line and We never justify The choir sings a never-ending lie

When you thought you were free You did not need a reason No reason to survive

As the big door closes And you waiting for the mail Somebody tell the world You're buried alive

One more nightmare Just one more time Join the congregation Everybody get in line

Celebration The choir sings a lie As you call The hammer falls And no one hears you cry I'm buried alive
