

Blaze Bayley, Stare At The Sun

As I live, so I die
Here in, endless night
Time to be, time to see
Infinity, consuming me
There's a world of madness, light years away
That I once called my home
There's a sea of sadness, to sail away
Now I stare at the sun

Staring at a million million stars
Through the icy dark
Across the spinal arm
The yellow dwarf, a speck of light
In perpetual night
Lifetimes away there lies my home

Just can't seem to tear away my eyes
Is this real or am I still alive

Stare at the sun
The end of the world has come
Stare at the sun, the sun
The ending has just begun

I knew I'd feel a little pain
Not so deep or so ingrained
Now I won't see home again
Earth seems to be so far away
This my cradle and my grave
Is this where my life will end

Just can't seem to tear away my eyes
Is this real or am I still alive
Is this now the time that I will die

Stare at the sun
The end of the world has come
Stare at the sun, the sun
The ending has just begun

As I live, so I die
Here in, endless night