Blue, How's a man supposed to change

Yo, check it out First verse, drop it Lord knows I'm gonna make it To brighter days I'm on my way I dreamed before and saw the way That I Was misbehaving Now I'm standing face to face To my reflection I can't see it My vision's blinded by the pain 'Cause that's how I feel My mirrors broke I've been cursed with seven years of bad luck Will the sorrow ever change Chorus 2x So now my soul's in debt I must regret I die and live another lonely day Tell me how a man's supposed to change My fear is growing old unhappy Without my loved ones next to me Ink on my skin has nearly faded Incarcerated for my sins To my reflection I can't see it My vision's blinded by the pain 'Cause that's how I feel My mirrors broke I've been cursed with seven years of bad luck Will the sorrow ever change That's right, by the pain Chorus 2x Blue sing How a man's supposed to change How am I supposed to change Chorus Tell me how a man's supposed to change Tell me how a man's supposed to change Tell me how a man's supposed to change So now my soul's in debt I must regret I die and live another lonely day Tell me how a man's supposed to change So now my soul's in debt I must regret I die and live another lonely day

(to fade)