

Blue Rodeo, Cinema Song

I've been walking hours today
Trying to sort all the things I have to say
We've been changing shifting with the light
Stumbling through the daytime and fading in the night

Come on over talk to me dear
There's nothing else I'm thinking about
Than you being here
I write you letters
More than just a few
I leave them lying open on the table for you

Now I know for the first time true
All of the ways I've been lying to you
It's not that I don't think we can open up in time
It's just that I'm afraid of what we'll find

I watch you creeping leaving with the dawn
Hoping I don't wake up now your cover is gone
But it makes no difference anything you do
Something keeps me coming back to get closer to you

Now I know for the first time true
All of the ways I've been lying to you
It's not that I don't think we can open up in time
It's just that I'm afraid of what we'll find
It's only I'm afraid of what we'll find
