Bob Mould, Roll Over And Die

You forsake me No one walks away, not this time If you can't take this There's only one way out

It's over and done, this whole thing Roll over and die tonight

And if I couldn't hold you I'd end it all I wish I could have told you why

In this world, I've got no other choice There is nothing left at all You don't notice, but that's all right you don't know what it's like

Some days I can barely rise But you didn't realize I close my eyes for you
