

Bobby Bare, Great Snowman

I remember the day when the snow melted away and the great snowman was wed
He said yes I do and little Linda said it too and the great snowman was wed

Well Jimmy Jones was the snowman's name he put all the other local lovers to shame
He had good looks and a real fine car went around breaking all the pretty girls' hearts
Until one day the great snowman found Linda Lou started melting him down
He bought the ring and they named the day
And the great snowman started melting away
I remember the day...

Now the great snowman and his loving spouse live in a little subdivision house
They've got six kids and a mother in law another kiddie comin' in the fall
His old Cadillac needs the paint retouched it's full of baby diapers and bottles and such
The great snowman he has outgrown all his fancy cuddy clothes
I remember the day...
And the great snowman was wed
