

Bon Jovi, The Radio Saved My Life Tonight

I got something on my mind
I'm just a little bit depressed
I try to blame it on the rain
But it was in my heart I guess
I'm feeling like a stranger
When I drove through my hometown
Past the sign that reads 'The Boyhood Home of a Place That's Long Gone Now'

Bridge:
I realized ain't nothing what it used to be
Until I heard a song that takes me to my memories

Chorus:
The radio saved my life tonight
Old song that that DJ played made me feel alright
Made it home by my dashboard light
The radio saved my life tonight

Just this side of morning
Just this side of dawn
I walked so soft into my bedroom
Saw my wife sleeping alone
She whispered, "Baby, are you OK? Have you been gone for long?"
I just kicked off my jeans and I held her close
I held her all night long

Bridge:
I tried to sleep but in my mind I heard that song
Like a friend in need the melody keeps me hanging on

Chorus:
The radio saved my life tonight
Old song that that DJ played made me feel alright
Made it home by my dashboard light
The radio saved my life tonight

The radio saved my life tonight
The sad song that the DJ played made me feel alright
As I drove down that lonesome highway just me and my dashboard light
The radio saved my life tonight

Chorus:
The radio saved my life tonight
Old song that that DJ played made me feel alright
I made it home by my dashboard light
The radio saved my life tonight

The radio saved my life tonight
The radio saved my life tonight
The radio saved my life tonight
