Bon Jovi, When She Comes

Outside this world keeps turnin' 'round London Bridge keeps burnin' down but it'll be all right, oooh

No one hears our silent screams In this land of broken dreams but it'll be all right, when she comes

It'll be all right, when she comes It'll all be tight, when she comes

And when I lie she still believes She don't ask why, she's there for me When it get's hard, she's all I need to get by

I hear her voice in a thousand places I try so hard, still I can't escape it She's the one, when she comes, yeah

And if the sky come fallin' down, I never ever even hear a sound It's true, she's as great a red as blue skies are blue

Everything's all right, when she comes Everything's all tight, when she comes

And when I lie she still believes She don't ask why, she's there for me When it gets hard, she's all I really need

Everything's all right, when she comes
It'll all be tight, when she comes
When she comes
It's all right, It's all right, when she comes
It's all right, It's all right, when she comes
It's all right, It's all right, It's all right, when she comes
It's all right, It's all right, when she comes