

Bonepony, Eyes Wide Open

Studied the cracks in the wall
The tile and my boot lace
I heard the echoes down the hall
A woman cried out in labor
And the lights were painfully bright when they brought you to me
But I could see clearly the first time I saw you
My Eyes were Wide Open the first time I saw you
And my heart was yours

Now the days roll by like storm clouds
And six is soon seven
There's questions like 'how far is it to heaven?'
And 'can angels really fly?'
'cause in your eyes I have all the answers
Well I don't but for you I always try
'cause I could see clearly the first time I saw you
My Eyes were Wide Open the first time I saw you
And my heart was yours

So walk with me slowly
Come sit with me a while
Don't rush into tomorrow
Take your time be a child
And if ever I disappoint you
Or if we should disagree
Please don't forget how much you mean to me
Cause I believe in you
Your love is real
And I could see clearly the first time I saw you
My Eyes were Wide Open the first time I saw you
And my heart still is yours
