

Bonnie McKee, Open Your Eyes

Day after day i was out with you, and the sky came a tumbling down smoking the air all i want is truth and i am alive thats a glow thats alive thats a warm place in your heart you kept a turning me on and off til i went out and you were standing shivering in the dark open your eyes and see me leaving closing the door, da da dada..... i won't think twice when you come clean not anymore, da da dada..... hope was a dream that i had of you and the soft form slumber of dawn i must keep in mind that reality, can be painful if neglected to long and i am aware that i will soon be relieved to the ?mussy? of a concrete jungle i thought that i could fly right but instead its of a loneliness and bright eyed stumble

closing the door, da da dada.....
i won't think twice when you come clean not anymore, no no nooo..... open your eyes and see that i am not afraid of saying goodbye, your strikes are up i'm gone so don't even try cuz i'm telling you right now hey that i'm a free young women and i gotta be moving on once i was lost and my strive, in getting you off, was my life i wasn't down now i know that getting rid of you was all i needed to grow once i was lost, now i'm found but my a de das on the ground once i was blind, now i see the negative affect that you were having on me

closing the door, da da dada.....
i won't think twice when you come clean not anymore, no no

your not the man that i rememeber tell me your name, da da dada..... whole empty sins, that long november you never came, no no hehhhh dadada..... open your eyes and see me , see me leaving
