

Boo Radleys, Best Lose The Fear

The pure lights beckon and the music calls but you're trapped inside those four walls it's not your fault that she has changed
it's not her fault
you're still the same
you both work hard and you feel the pace but you're the one who knows it's not a race to be won

and I know you'd like to disappear you'd like to lose the fear you dream the love you had
is near

you feel so down cos you haven't been out your ears are still sore from the latest bout something's gonna have to change arrangements must be re-arranged

and I know you'd like to disappear
you'd like to lose the fear
you dream the love you had
is near
you know you must go but you're frightened to leave you'd love to stay but you're too scared to breathe