

Boo Radleys, Heaven

Reasons for believing in anything
Are few and far between these days
And I am just a boy who can't say no
Things are so much clearer in a haze
And you don't know, so why not give it a chance
Heaven's at the bottom of this glass
Lessons are for learning then throwing away
Experience has taught me nothing
Think I'll take a chance and miss you today
You can choose real life if you want
And you don't know, so why not give it a chance
Heaven's at the bottom of this glass
Blinded by the sunshine give me neon light
When I'm far away this is my home
A small one on the side to aid my flight
Then I can feel my wings begin to grow
And you don't know, so why don't give it a chance
Heaven's at the bottom of this glass