

Borknagar, White

Again

The empty room

White and unmarked,

though touched

With a sensible structure

Underneath the surface

Hiding in the corner of the eye

Or resting outside the field of vision

No doors or windows

No entrances or exits

White x 6

Only bright light

Forming a glowing kingdom

Of electrical impulses

Never to leave the premises

Never to be caught

Only sensed