

Boys Like Girls, If You Could See Me Now

The nights grow cold im growing older everyday youre gone is more lonesome than the last one ive spent all this time without you in my life and youre still on my mind nothing ever feels alright im tired of being alone
why dont you just come home because i miss you so
and i want you to know
if you could see me now
we could move on somehow if you could travel all the miles again if you could just see me now you wouldnt have a doubt we could just start this love all over and forget all the things we know
if you could see me now somehow
everything i said wasnt what i meant i hope you can forget and i can leave all my regrets behind tonight and catch a flight to Boston and come start a new life and this time we can do it right
im tired of being alone
why dont you just come home
because i miss you so
and i want you to know
if you could see me now
we could move on somehow
if you could travel all the miles again
if you could just see me now
you wouldnt have a doubt
we could just start this love all over
and forget all the things we know
if you could see me now
somehow
if you could see me now
we could move on somehow
if you could travel all the miles
if you could see me now
we could move on somehow
if you could travel all the miles again
if you could just see me now
you wouldnt have a doubt
we could just start this love all over
and forget all the things we know
if you could see me now
we could move on somehow
if you could travel all the miles again
if you could see me now
somehow