Boyzone, Thank God I Kissed You

Yeah it's 4 am and the earth stands still
The city's took a sleeping pill
But I'm awake and lying next to you, yeah
So it's 4 am and I breathe you in
And old familiar thoughts begin
I'd hate to think without what I'd do
Well I could have turned left
And you could have turned right
I could have stayed at home that night
And you you might have never caught that train, for the rain
Well if you hadn't smiled and if I hadn't asked
We could have been two ships that passed
And I might have never known your name
Thank god I kissed you, that I kissed you

Was it all just chance
Was it meant to be
Was it in the stars for you and me
There's a million doors, but just one key
It can take one touch
It can take one look
Well our whole life's a storybook
And we are just fulfilling destiny

[CHORUS]

Thank god I kissed you
That I touched you
That I met you, now I love you
Well I'm hooked on you and without you I'm insane

Well I could have turned left
And you could have turned right
I could have stayed at home that night
And you you might have never caught that train, for the rain
Well if you hadn't smiled and if I hadn't asked
We could have been two ships that passed
And I might have never known your name
And thank god I kissed you
Thank god I kissed you
Thank god I kissed you
Cause I could have missed you
Thank god that I kissed you
That I touched you
That I met you, now I love you
Thank god I kissed you
Thank god I kissed you