

Brandon Flowers, Still Want You

Everyone's got a combination
If you put in the time
The numbers come like a revelation
You show me yours
I show you mine
And when you're down, girl, you got to know this
Nobody else is in your room
We'll make it through

Time is passing by
I still want you
Crime is on the rise
I still want you
Climate change is dead
I still want you
Nuclear distress
I still want you
The Earth is heating up
I still want you
Hurricanes and floods
I still want you
Even more than I did before

I used to think that I knew the big time
Before you came around
That I was up in the velvet gold man
And you put my feet back on the ground
A piece of mine has a lot to ask for
These silly days
But we got it made
Don't let it fade

Time is passing by
I still want you
Crime is on the rise
I still want you
Climate change is dead
I still want you
Nuclear distress
I still want you
The Earth is heating up
I still want you
Hurricanes and floods
I still want you
Even more than I did before

And when your mind is made up
Gonna bring it down
When you got no time
You gonna see it found
Your heart
Crowds call
There's something on the line
It's hard for me to show
There's something you should know

The time is passing by
I still want you
Crime is on the rise
I still want you
Climate change is dead
I still want you
Nuclear distress
I still want you

The Earth is heating up
I still want you
Hurricanes and floods
I still want you
Even more than I did before

The time is passing by
I still want you
Crime is on the rise
I still want you
Nuclear distress
I still want you
Climate change is dead
I still want you
The Earth is heating up
I still want you
Hurricanes and floods
I still want you
Even more than I did
Even more than I did
Before
