

Brandy, Where are you now

You just came into my world,
A little boy without a girl.
When you smiled at me, I knew it was on.
We spent weeks that were a blur.
We made love so sweet and pure.
Then one day, you were gone.
Where that man I'd come to know
with the heart I thought was gold?
You just turned around and walked out the door.
How could you just be so cold?
What a hard and heavy load?
Now I'm lying here with nothing to hold.
Are you in another place
Or behind another face;
Where are you now?
Are you just a mental case
Or did you just slip into another space;
Where are you now?
I have searched within my soul
For the reasons never told;
What bothers me is that there is none.
I wish you'd told me from the start
Instead of playing with my heart,
But you left me here in love and alone.
I'm taking it easy.
Cleared my head.
Cried me a river.
Said some prayers.
But I often wonder...
When I'm in my bed...
Where...
Are...
You now....?
Are you in another place
Or behind another face;
Where are you now?
Are you just a mental case
Or did you just slip into another space;
Where are you now?