

Bryan Ferry, September song

For it's a long, long time from May to December And the days grow short when you reach September