

Buddahead, Chains

The words you said to me and your promises to stay
Were beautiful and I somehow believed.

It hurts, the way you play.
You stone me to see if I can break in two easily.

I'm in chains and you don't see.
It feels like rain when you leave me.

I need your confidence and some peace of mind
But not so fast my innocence is still behind.

I'm in chains and you don't see.
It feels like rain when you leave me.

I need some light.
I tried to find you but couldn't reach you.
You were too faint.

It's harder every time underneath your waves.
Set me down on solid ground and I'll be safe.
