

Buddahead, Turn Away

If I was older I wouldn't stand there and let you waste it.
Now that it's over I should've tried harder but couldn't face it.

I've let go of bygones but still you throw them all back in my face.

I need some time to turn away.
I don't mean to hurt you
But I need some time to turn away
Until I rise above you, someday.

You stand by me though life is empty and so much has faded.
We keep on dying but still you tell me we're gonna make it.

I've let go of bygones but still you throw them all back in my face.

I need some time to turn away.
I don't mean to hurt you
But I need some time to turn away
Until I rise above you, someday.

Wish I could turn this feeling.
It's something I can't do.
If I could leave maybe I'd sleep again.
