

Building 429, Back To Me

Tears burn like the flame of the fire
Words hurt when they come from an empty heart
Then time stops like the hand of a broken clock
And everything that lit up your life is covered in the darkness
I know, I know
I feel your pain
I know, I know

When the world is closing in, you're breaking down
You're crying out but there is no answer
When you call, just close your eyes and know that
This twisted road eventually, is gonna lead you back to Me

Ice melts to reveal a frozen soul
And the water rises to new suffocating heights
And it feels like you're drowning in desperation
Cause everything that lit up your life has been covered in the darkness
I know I know
I feel your pain

I know I know, you know the way

When the world is closing in, you're breaking down
You're crying out but there is no answer
When you call, just close your eyes and know that
This twisted road eventually, is gonna lead you back to Me