

Burton Cummings, Takes A Fool To Love A Fool

You're a fool, baby, you're a fool
You play the game but you change the rule
I wish to God in heaven, that I could hate you but I can't
It takes a fool, baby, to love a fool

How many nights must I cry
Wipin' the love tears from my eyes
I feel you here beside me, even though it's just a dream
Honey I care, don't you know that I care

You're a fool, lover, you're a fool
You play the game of love, but you change the rule
I wish to God in heaven, that I could hate you, but I love you
It takes a fool, baby, to love a fool

And how many times can you try
To see me with an unbiased eye?
When you hold him so closely, and he calls you a nickname
Honey I'm there, can't you feel it, I'm there

You're a fool, lover, you're a fool
You play the game but you change the rule
I wish to God in heaven, that I could hate you, but, I still love you
It takes a fool, baby, to love a fool
