

Candlemass, Dawn

Suddenly I awoke. I must have fallen asleep under the oak, where I used to sit and dream as a child
The dawn was soon to come, and the air was crisp and cold Yet I felt warm I remembered my strange dreams and knew I had the strength and love in my heart to create something in my life. The world was waiting I was reborn